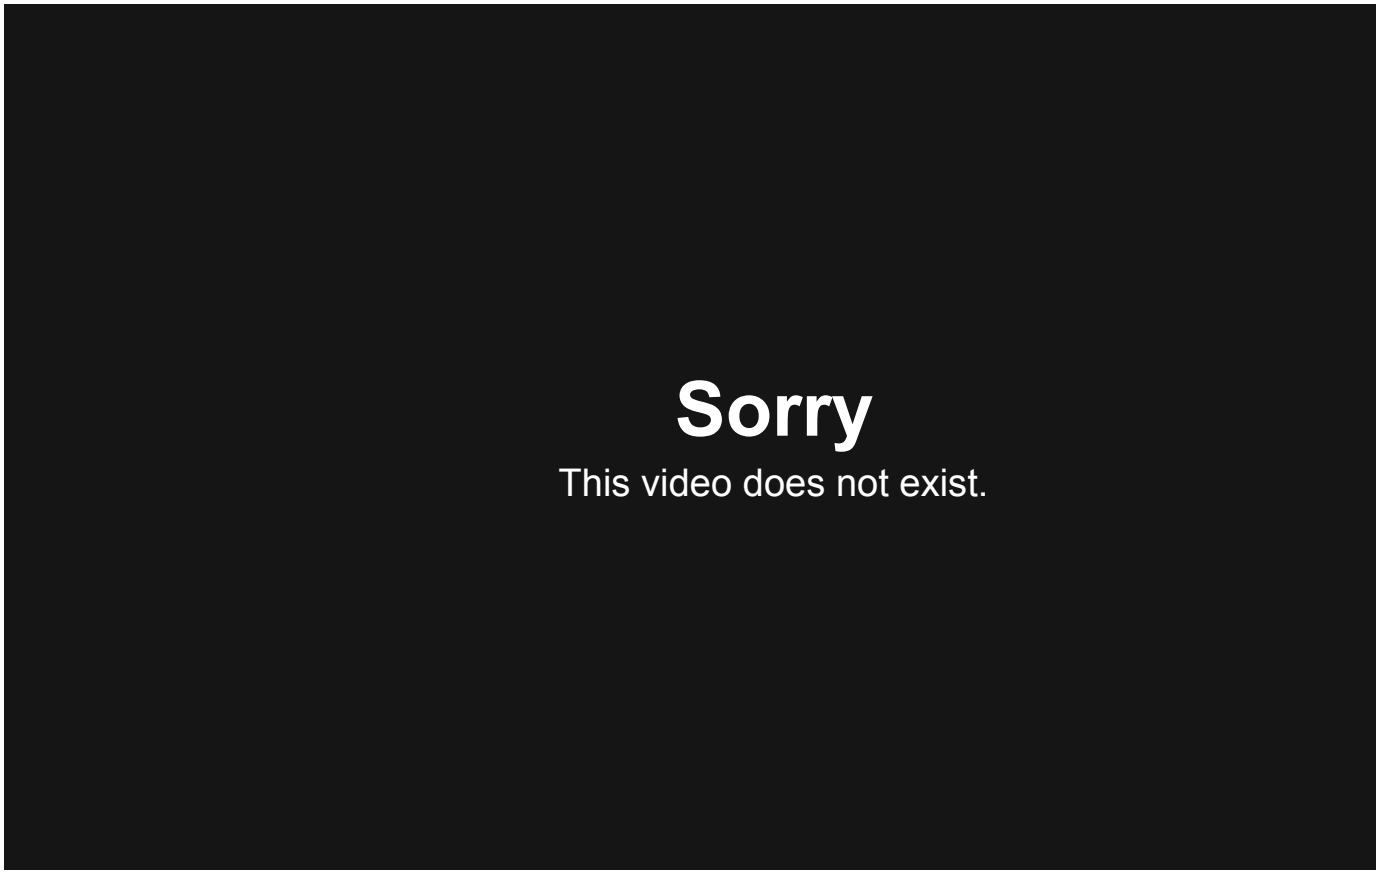
Team rallies around longtime coworker as he battles cancer

6/19/2017



What happens when one of our team members is diagnosed with cancer? “I reached out to my American Airlines family, and they reached back to me — unconditionally,” says Mark Smith, a Stage II throat cancer survivor. “It was always about, ‘What can we do to help you?’” Listen in as Mark shares his story of hugs, matching T-shirts and Team Mark Day. Then learn how so many team members at American — just like Mark — are the inspiration behind our partnership with Stand Up To Cancer.
