AMERICAN AIRLINES JOINS WITH THE AMERICAN RED CROSSTO AID OKLAHOMA TORNADO VICTIMS

AAdvantage Members Can Donate via American Airlines to Help People Affected by the Storms' Devastation

FORT WORTH, Texas – American Airlines and American Eagle are working with the American Red Cross to aid people affected by the major tornadoes that have struck Oklahoma, including areas of Oklahoma City. The storms have left widespread swathes of destruction, injury and loss of life, and have left thousands homeless. Members of the American Airlines AAdvantage® program can support relief efforts by donating to the American Red Cross to help provide victims with shelter, food and other assistance.

Through June 30, 2013, AAdvantage members will earn a one-time award of 250 AAdvantage miles for a minimum donation of $50, or 500 AAdvantage miles for a donation of $100 or more to American Red Cross Disaster Relief.

"Help is urgently needed by the victims of these storms," said Bernie Willett, American's Director for Citizenship and Community Programs. "We invite our customers to join us in supporting the American Red Cross to provide much-needed assistance to those in need."

Numerous trained Red Cross disaster workers have mobilized to distribute meals and relief supplies to those affected by the tornadoes. By donating to American Red Cross Disaster Relief, American Airlines customers can support people who have been stricken by the storms as they begin to recover and rebuild.

Individuals may also directly donate needed relief items at the American Airlines maintenance base in Tulsa, Okla., where American has set up a trailer and volunteers are accepting donations from employees and the public. American is coordinating its efforts with Transport Workers Union Local 514, which is working with the American Red Cross. The only items the Red Cross can accept are as follows: bottled water, Gatorade, shovels, rakes, work gloves, flashlights, batteries, sunscreen, heavy-duty trash bags, plastic storage containers, individually-wrapped snacks, baby formula, canned food, can openers, cat and dog food, hand sanitizer, wipes, diapers, personal hygiene items. The maintenance base is located near Tulsa International Airport at 3900 N. Mingo Road; donations are being accepted from 6 a.m.to 8:30 p.m.
