A transformation (and surprise) of heroic proportions

4/24/2018

American, Stand Up To Cancer (SU2C) and Marvel Studios have debuted the next element of our recently announced partnership in the battle against cancer.

On April 23, we unveiled an Airbus A321T aircraft wrapped with a special graphic featuring Marvel Studios' Avengers: Infinity War heroes, images of SU2C researchers and American team members who are cancer survivors: Customer Service Agent Shandra Fitzpatrick, Aviation Maintenance Technician Anthony MacGilfrey, Los Angeles-based Flight Attendant Michelle Ballard, Chicago-based Captain Ron France, Fleet Service Clerk Juan Barquero and Reservations Customer Care Manager Lynnae Stripling.

The graphic, which includes the Stand Up To Cancer logo, is more than 50 feet long and was installed at Tech Ops – Tulsa. The plane was revealed to team members who are featured in the campaign during a special event at Los Angeles International Airport, which you can see in the video above.
