Celebrating our Aviation Maintenance Technicians

5/24/2019

On May 24, National Aviation Maintenance Technician Day, we celebrate the men and women AMTs at American — and around the world — who work to ensure each aircraft is safe and reliable for the millions of customers and team members who fly every year.

The knowledgeable, experienced and skilled team members are often the unsung heroes of our airline, and we thank them today and every day for all that they do. Watch the video below to see a day in the life of an AMT.
