V2X Awarded $84 Million U.S. Navy Task Order to Support Critical Water Supply Systems in the Indo-Pacific Region

2025-10-01

RESTON, Va., Oct. 1, 2025 /PRNewswire/ -- V2X, Inc. (NYSE: VVX) announced it has been awarded an $84 million task order under the U.S. Navy's Global Contingency Services Multiple Award Contract III indefinite-delivery, indefinite-quantity. The award includes a one-year base period with three additional option years.

The task order continues V2X's ongoing support at Red Hill, Hawaii, where the company is assisting the U.S. Military in establishing a safe and reliable water supply system.

"This award reaffirms our commitment to providing essential services during times of necessity," said Jeremy C. Wensinger, President and Chief Executive Officer at V2X. "V2X has a proven track record of meeting our customers' needs, in all environments worldwide."

V2X's work in Hawaii builds on a strong presence across the Pacific region and reflects the company's ability to deliver rapid, multi-domain mission-critical solutions. This essential program underscores V2X's role in supporting defense customers with critical contingency and humanitarian operations.
