V2X to Provide Mission-Critical Aviation Support to the FBI under $100 Million Contract

2025-02-26

RESTON, Va., Feb. 26, 2025 /PRNewswire/ -- V2X (NYSE: VVX) Inc., announces its award of a $100 million contract to provide aviation maintenance and support services for the Federal Bureau of Investigation's (FBI) Critical Incident Response Group. Under this contract, V2X will deliver mission-critical aviation resources that enable the FBI to conduct intelligence gathering, investigate operations, and law-enforcement activities.

V2X will support the FBI's specialized aviation fleet by providing field-level maintenance, special mission equipment sustainment, training, and administrative services. These capabilities ensure that FBI aircraft remain fully mission-ready to meet evolving operational demands.

"This contract underscores V2X's expertise in delivering agile aviation solutions in support of national security," said Vinny Caputo, Senior Vice President of Aerospace Systems at V2X. "We are proud to provide the FBI with the aviation resources needed to execute their mission anytime, anywhere—ensuring operational readiness when it matters most."

The indefinite-delivery, indefinite-quantity contract includes a five-year ordering period, with four 12-month options. V2X will operate at multiple locations across the United States, reinforcing the company's commitment to delivering agile, global aviation support in service of national security.
