

TriZetto, a leader in healthcare IT solutions, selected EPAM as a strategic software development partner

January 10, 2013 2:00 PM EST

Newtown, PA - January 10, 2013 - EPAM (NYSE:EPAM), a leading provider of complex software engineering services and solutions and the leader in Central and Eastern European IT delivery, today announced that it was selected as a software engineering and product development partner by TriZetto Corporation, a company which has been innovating healthcare IT since 1997. Today, TriZetto delivers solutions and services that simplify healthcare for everyone, improves collaboration among payers and providers, and enables greater efficiency and effectiveness in healthcare. As a result of this selection, EPAM will assist TriZetto in developing solutions that help healthcare organizations access a comprehensive array of capabilities necessary to meet today's challenges of the evolving healthcare market.

"We were looking for a partner with strong product engineering capabilities," says Pierre Samec, EVP and CTO at TriZetto, "EPAM's track record coupled with its deep experience in Microsoft technologies, BI/Big Data, and Agile development led TriZetto to select EPAM as a key development partner."

"TriZetto is a very important relationship to EPAM," says Arkadij Dobkin, CEO and President of EPAM Systems. "We understand the very fast rate of change in healthcare and insurance today and many new challenges that IT technology providers to the industry are facing with. That is why we are very happy to see that such a well-recognized healthcare IT solution leader as TriZetto trusted EPAM's software engineering and product development capabilities to help address those challenges."
