Recognition showcases growing partnership and deep expertise in Google Cloud

NEWTOWN, Pa., April 10, 2019 /PRNewswire/ -- EPAM Systems, Inc. (NYSE: EPAM), a leading global provider of digital platform engineering and software development services, today announced that it has been recognized as the 2018 Google Cloud North American Breakthrough Partner of the Year. Google Cloud presented this year's award at the Partner Summit at Google Cloud Next '19 in San Francisco.

"This award represents a new page in our longstanding relationship with Google, built on our shared software engineering heritage over the last decade, which has enabled us to do great work together for joint clients," said Arkadiy Dobkin, CEO & President, EPAM. "Today, EPAM is much more than an engineering partner. We are an innovation partner, a go-to-market partner and a real business partner for Google Cloud."

A Google Cloud Platform (GCP) Premier System Integrator Partner and a Google Advanced Solutions Lab Partner, EPAM was recognized for its achievements in the Google Cloud ecosystem, helping joint customers become more agile and reduce costs by migrating and optimizing cloud-based solutions. EPAM's GCP expertise includes infrastructure consulting and migration, cloud-native application development, cloud optimization, data strategy and consulting, and machine learning and automation. EPAM currently has over 700 Google Cloud certified professionals and continues to host certification drives to increase its number of certifications.

"We're thrilled to recognize EPAM as the 2018 Google Cloud North American Breakthrough Partner of the Year," said Carolee Gearhart, Vice President, Worldwide Channel Sales at Google Cloud. "EPAM has proven their expertise in Google Cloud and has demonstrated their commitment to customer success over the past year. We're excited to keep building on our partnership with EPAM as more and more customers look to our ecosystem to help them succeed in the cloud."
