Regions and the SEC in 2019

During the coming football season, Regions will also be a regular part of the Saturday kickoff show, SEC Nation, with scheduled on-campus stops each week. The first two are scheduled for the Aug. 31 Georgia at Vanderbilt game in Nashville and the Sept. 7 West Virginia at Missouri game in Columbia.

At each tour stop, Regions will be on site for pregame tailgates and fun with swag giveaways, photo opportunities and games. Oh, and Regions’ iconic big green bike will also be there.

In addition, at each stop, fans will have an opportunity to register for the Regions Bank #road2ATLsweepstakes Promotion for a chance to win an SEC Championship prize pack that includes four tickets to the SEC Championship, hotel accommodations, a VISA gift card and VIP behind-the-scenes access to the SEC Nation broadcast. No purchase or banking relationship is necessary to enter; visit road2atlsweepstakes.com for registration details and official rules.

Also this year, Regions is unveiling a new weekly #road2ATLsweepstakes game – the Grind Game of the Week Challenge. Each week of the season, registered participants can pick the SEC game that they think will be the “Grind Game of the Week” – the one with the closest final score. Participants that correctly choose the Grind Game of the Week in a Weekly Challenge game will be entered into a drawing for a $500 gift card. Register for the Promotion and play the Grind Game of the Week Challenge at road2atlsweepstakes.com.

Lastly, fans can also be a part of ESPN’s celebration of the College Football 150 Initiative, through a new SEC Storied series on the SEC Network. “Saturdays in the South,” an eight-part series highlighting the history, passion, and stories of college football in the South, will air weekly beginning Sept. 3, with Regions as the presenting sponsor. Episodes will also be available to stream on demand on the ESPN app, accessible on computers, smartphones, tablets and connected devices for fans who receive their video subscription from an affiliated provider.
