Michael D. Rees

I. Entities Covered by This Policy

- Employees of Blue Owl and any of its subsidiaries (“Blue Owl”)

II. Introduction

Blue Owl has adopted this Code of Business Conduct (the “Code”). This Code applies to each Blue Owl principal executive officer, principal financial officer, principal accounting officer or controller, as well as all directors (including disinterested directors), other officers, employees (including temporary employees) and any other individual as directed by the Chief Compliance Officer (the “CCO”) (each, a “Blue Owl Covered Person” and, collectively, “Blue Owl Covered Persons”).

This Code sets out basic principles to guide the day-to-day business activities of Blue Owl. The overall policy underlying this Code is that we expect you to follow the highest standards of honest conduct and business ethics in all aspects of your activities on behalf of Blue Owl, its investors and vendors and your fellow directors, officers or employees. In addition, you are expected to comply with all applicable laws, regulations and our compliance policies. Furthermore, you are prohibited from doing indirectly (e.g., by asking someone to do on your behalf) anything you cannot do directly under this Code, applicable laws and regulations or our compliance policies. If you have any questions regarding these requirements, please speak to the General Counsel or CCO, or a member of their respective teams, for additional clarification.

The Code operates with all other policies and procedures adopted by Blue Owl. You should know and understand our policies as you will be asked to certify to them in the future. Refer to these policies and contact the CCO for additional guidance in specific areas when needed. Note that if you believe this Code conflicts with another policy or procedure, you must comply with the more restrictive provision or contact the CCO for additional guidance. Furthermore, we may modify or update our policies or procedures in the future and may adopt new policies and procedures from time to time.

This Code sets out basic principles designed to guide you in your conduct and is not intended to cover every ethical issue that you may confront while associated with Blue Owl. You are also expected to use sound judgment and act in accordance with the highest ethical standards when confronted with ethical issues that are not covered by this Code, other applicable policies and procedures or any law or regulation. If something does not look, sound or feel right, do not do it and ask your supervisor or the General Counsel or CCO for advice.

This Code serves as the Code of Ethics for Blue Owl within the meaning of Section 406 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act and applicable rules and forms thereunder. In addition, this Code, together with the Code of Ethics – Personal Account Dealing policy, constitutes the Code of Ethics pursuant to Rule 204A-1 under the Advisers Act for each of the Blue Owl affiliated investment advisers which are registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission.

III. Resources for Seeking Advice and Reporting Concerns

If at any point you are unsure about whether a planned course or action may violate this Code, you should seek advice. Contact the CCO to obtain guidance or to report concerns about an actual or suspected Code or other policy violation.

Questionable or unethical activities can also be reported to your supervisor, the General Counsel, CCO or any of the members of senior management. While we strongly encourage you to report your concerns to us, they can also be anonymously reported by emailing reportingconcerns@blueowl.com or by contacting Blue Owl's Audit Committee directly or by accessing the Blue Owl whistleblower hotline by calling 1-844-601-1864 or at www.blueowlcapiital.ethicspoint.com.

Nothing in this Code should be construed to prohibit you from reporting possible violations of any law or regulation to any governmental agency or entity, including the U.S. Department of Justice, the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission or other governmental entities, or making any other disclosures that are protected by any governmental "whistleblower" laws or regulations.

IV. Non-Retaliation Policy

No Blue Owl Covered Person may retaliate in any fashion against you if you report a suspected or actual violation of this Code in good faith. Making a report in "good faith" generally means that you have a reasonable and genuine belief that the information you are providing relates to a possible violation of law or this Code, regardless of whether the report turns out to be founded.

In addition, you have certain rights in connection with reporting legal, compliance, ethical or issues to regulatory, administrative or other government or self-regulatory bodies. Nothing in this Code is intended to limit those rights or any protections that may be applicable in connection with reporting potential violations.

V. Compliance with and Violations of the Code

You are required to ensure that you do not violate this Code. You are expected to use good judgment in recognizing situations where a violation of this Code may occur and to ensure that no violations occur. In situations where it is unclear whether this Code applies, you should consult with your supervisor or the CCO before taking any actions.

Blue Owl may take disciplinary actions against you if you violate this Code, up to and including suspension or dismissal. Furthermore, if a violation of this Code also constitutes a violation of any law or regulation, you may be subject to legal action or penalties.

In addition to ensuring you do not violate this Code, you are encouraged to report known or other suspected violations of this Code by others to your supervisor or the CCO.

VI. Summary of the Code of Business Conduct

The principles covered in this Code are summarized here. Where applicable, additional information can be found in the corresponding Blue Owl policy.

- Compliance with Laws and Regulations

Blue Owl is subject to many laws and regulations. Being aware of and complying with both the letter and spirit of all applicable laws and regulations is critical to our ability to accomplish our objectives.

In everything that you do on behalf of Blue Owl, you must use care not to violate any law or regulation and where it is not permissible for you to take certain actions, you may not ask someone to act on your behalf. You are responsible to know, understand and follow the laws and regulations that apply to your responsibilities on behalf of Blue Owl.

While you are not expected to be an expert on all applicable laws and regulations that apply to your responsibilities on behalf of Blue Owl, you are expected to know the laws and regulations well enough to recognize when an issue arises and to seek the advice of the CCO when appropriate.

- Conflicts of Interest

A conflict of interest may occur when your personal interests interfere in any way, or even appear to interfere, with the interests of Blue Owl. Similarly, a conflict of interest may also occur when your personal interests interfere with your ability to objectively and effectively perform your job. The overarching principle is that you must avoid any conflict, or appearance of a conflict, between your personal interests and our interests.

Examples of conflicts of interest may include

- (1) improperly causing Blue Owl to take action, or fail to take action, for your personal benefit rather than for the benefit of Blue Owl;
- (2) improperly using your position with Blue Owl or information that belongs to Blue Owl, including, but not limited to, knowledge about pending or potential investment transactions for personal gain;
- (3) using or communicating confidential information obtained in the course of your work for your or another's personal benefit; or
- (4) recommending, implementing or causing Blue Owl to consider any investment transactions with an entity in which you, directly or through family members, have any significant interest absent full disclosure.

Identifying a conflict of interest is not always clear cut. If you are ever in doubt, seek advice from the General Counsel and/or the CCO. Wherever possible, you should try to avoid situations in which a conflict of interest exists or appears to exist. Where a conflict of interest cannot be avoided, you must disclose the situation to the General Counsel and/or CCO.

- Corporate Opportunities

Blue Owl Covered Persons owe a duty to Blue Owl to advance its legitimate interests when the opportunities to do so arises. You may not use Blue Owl property, information or position for your personal gain or the gain of a family member and you may not compete or prepare to compete with Blue Owl. Sometimes the line between personal and Blue Owl benefits is difficult to draw, and sometimes both personal and Blue Owl benefits may be derived from certain activities. The prudent course of conduct is to make sure that any use of Blue Owl property or services that is not solely for the benefit of Blue Owl is approved beforehand by the CCO. When you become aware of a financial opportunity as a result of your relationship with Blue Owl, your position at Blue Owl, or through your use of Blue Owl property regardless of the source, that opportunity belongs, in the first place, to Blue Owl.

- Fair Dealing

Blue Owl is committed to maintaining the highest level and ethical standards in the conduct of its business. Meeting this commitment is the responsibility of Blue Owl and each and every one of the Blue Owl Covered Persons. You must endeavor to deal fairly with our stockholders, fund investors, suppliers and business partners, or any portfolio companies or any other companies or individuals with whom we do business or come into contact, including fellow employees and our competitors. You must not take unfair advantage of these or other parties by means of manipulation, concealment, abuse of privileged information, misrepresentation of material facts or any other unfair-dealing practice.

- Confidential Information

As an individual associated with Blue Owl, you may have access to or receive confidential or proprietary information about Blue Owl, its funds investors, suppliers, business partners or other third parties. You are expected to use such information properly and not in any way adverse to Blue Owl or our investors' interests and to protect all confidential information, regardless of its form or format, from the time of creation or receipt until its authorized disposal. In addition, you are responsible for understanding and complying with all policies protecting the privacy, confidentiality and security of confidential information. This obligation continues even after your association with Blue Owl ends, until such information becomes publicly available.

In addition, until disclosed in a public report to investors or to the SEC in the normal course, you must keep confidential all information concerning the securities being considered for purchase or sale by Blue Owl or its subsidiaries or affiliates, unless approved by the General Counsel and CCO.

- Political Contributions

You may not make a political contribution or other payments to government officials or other parties, on your own behalf or on behalf of Blue Owl in order for Blue Owl to be rewarded with, or afforded the opportunity to compete for, investment advisory contracts to manage the assets of any potential investor, including public pension plans or other governmental accounts.

In addition, no funds of Blue Owl may be given directly to political candidates without the CCO's approval.

- Gifts and Entertainment

The purpose of gifts and entertainment in a business setting is generally to create good will and sound working relationships, not to gain an unfair advantage with investors, vendors and other third parties. You may not, directly or indirectly, offer, give, solicit or accept any gifts or business entertainment (collectively, "Benefits") in the context of your employment or association with Blue Owl, if these Benefits are:

- (1) likely to conflict or appear to conflict in any material way with any duty that Blue Owl owe to our investors or any duty that the recipient owes to its clients; or
- (2) intended to cause or improperly influence an individual, company or government official to act in a way that gives Blue Owl an advantage in seeking business or otherwise.

You should promptly report to the CCO all gifts received from or given to anyone who you are aware is doing business with, or who is seeking to do business with, Blue Owl that reasonably could be expected to give rise to a conflict of interest.

Refer to the Gifts and Entertainment Policy for further discussion.

- Anti-Bribery and Corruption

The U.S. and other jurisdictions have strict laws prohibiting corruption and bribery, and in particular bribery of government officials. Government officials include any employee of a government, government agency or government-controlled enterprise. Blue Owl prohibits all types of bribes, including giving or receiving bribes directly or indirectly to anyone, not just government officials. A bribe can include anything of value, such as cash payments, charitable donations, loans, travel expenses, lavish gifts, excessive entertainment or job placements, given to either the individual or his or her immediate family, with the intent to improperly influence a business decision. If you were to violate these laws, the penalties could be severe for Blue Owl and you individually.

Refer to the Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy for further discussion.

- Charitable Donations

Donations on behalf of Blue Owl by Blue Owl Covered Persons to charities with the intention of influencing such charities to become investors are not permitted. You should notify the CCO if you believe there may be an actual or apparent conflict of interest in connection with any charitable contribution made by Blue Owl or a Covered Person on behalf of Blue Owl or if you believe the contribution could give an appearance of impropriety.

- Insider Trading Policy

You may never (either for your personal gain or on behalf of Blue Owl or our investors) trade, encourage others to trade or recommend a trade in securities while in possession of “material nonpublic information,” which may come to your possession either in the course of performing your duties for Blue Owl or through personal contacts.
