CAVA

Notice of Amendment to Code of Business Conduct and Ethics

CAVA Group, Inc. (the "Company") adopted an amended version of the Code of Business Conduct and Ethics (the "Code"), effective on August 10, 2026.

The Code now incorporates the following two sections:

- Prohibition against Prediction Markets - Covered Parties (as defined in the Code) are prohibited from placing bets/wagers, trading contracts or participating on prediction markets in any manner, that in any way involves the Company, our customers, suppliers, competitors or restaurant industry matter; using Company resources, networks or devices to access prediction markets; and using any non-public, confidential or proprietary information, whether or not material, in any form of speculative activity.

- Research Companies and Expert Interviews – Covered Parties are prohibited from participating in any interviews with or providing any information to any research companies or media outlets, unless prior approved in writing by the Chief Executive Officer.

The Code does not materially change any other responsibilities and obligations that previously applied to Covered Parties. The foregoing description is not complete and is qualified in its entirety by reference to the full Code. Please review the full Code under the "Governance" heading on the Company's Investor Relations website at investor.cava.com/governance/governance-documents/default.aspx.