"JetBlue's in the business of giving customers more than the other guys, so today we are pleased to announce even more flights to the Washington area," said Scott Laurence, JetBlue's vice president of network planning. "Together with our six daily flights to Dulles, our new service to BWI will make jetting between the Hub and the Washington area a breeze, regardless of which airport you prefer."

"As a longtime fan of JetBlue, I am delighted to see the airline offering service at the airport that proudly bears my father's name," said Thurgood Marshall, Jr., son of groundbreaking Supreme Court justice and airport namesake, civil rights attorney Thurgood Marshall. "JetBlue's everyday low fares and award winning customer service will be a great addition to Baltimore/Washington-area travelers. Welcome to Maryland!"

"By adding Baltimore service, JetBlue cements its position as the airline offering the most nonstop destinations from Logan," said Edward C. Freni, Director of Aviation for the Massachusetts Port Authority, which owns and operates Logan. "We congratulate them on number 32 and look forward to their continued growth."

"JetBlue is a quality addition to the family of airlines operating at BWI Thurgood Marshall," said Maryland Governor Martin O'Malley. "Their decision to fly out of BWI Marshall once again validates the investments we have made to create a first class airport that is Maryland's gateway to the world."

Cape Air connections throughout New England

Customers traveling through Boston from Baltimore/Washington may also take advantage of convenient connecting service operated by JetBlue's marketing partner, Cape Air, to fly onward to some of New England's most beautiful destinations including Hyannis, Martha's Vineyard, Nantucket, and Provincetown, Mass., and Rutland/Killington, Vt.
