America's Most Responsible Companies were selected based on publicly available key performance indicators derived from CSR Reports, Sustainability Reports, and other reports as well as an independent survey. The KPIs focused on company performance in the environmental, social, and corporate governance areas, while the independent survey asked U.S. citizens about their perception of company activities related to corporate social responsibility.

"We are proud to be recognized by Newsweek and Statista as one of the most responsible companies in America," said Dave Heinzmann, Littelfuse President and Chief Executive Officer. "We are committed to continuing to progress initiatives that enrich our environment, associates and communities, and governance. I would like to thank our global teams, customers, suppliers and partners who work every day to strengthen our sustainability efforts."

The final list recognizes the top 500 most responsible companies in the United States, spanning 14 industries. Littelfuse is proud to be recognized on Newsweek's list of America's Most Responsible Companies 2023. The awards list announced on December 7 can be viewed on Newsweek's website.
