Amadeus and American Airlines announce new long-term distribution agreement

MIAMI and FORT WORTH, Texas, May 9, 2013: Amadeus, a leading technology partner for the global travel industry, and American Airlines, a wholly owned subsidiary of AMR Corporation, today announce a new long-term global distribution agreement. The new agreement enables Amadeus subscribers to continue to access and book the full range of American-marketed flights and lays the groundwork for Amadeus to offer American's full suite of additional products and services.

Under the new agreement, an end-to-end XML connectivity will be developed between Amadeus technology and American's interface. Once complete, this enhanced XML connectivity will facilitate expanded ancillary product distribution, real-time personalized offers, and improved merchandising, including the ability to book American's Main Cabin Extra premium seating product. Main Cabin Extra makes travel more comfortable by providing four to six inches of additional legroom and Group 1 boarding.

"We're pleased to renew and expand our long term partnership with American Airlines," said Scott Alvis, Chief Marketing Officer, Amadeus North America. "American and Amadeus share a culture of innovation and our teams work well together. We are committed to partnering with our airline customers to bring outstanding technology and expertise to help them achieve their plans."

"Amadeus has shown an ability to adapt its technology to our business needs and we appreciate this spirit of partnership," said Derek DeCross, Vice President of Global Sales for American Airlines. "Amadeus agents worldwide will benefit from an advanced solution that transparently displays the full range of American's products and instantly delivers highly relevant, tailored offers to customers."
