“Today's tentative agreement provides significant pay raises to our team members, while preserving jobs and facilitating growth,” said Kerry Philipovitch, senior vice president – Customer Experience. “Our agents and representatives have played a critical role in our integration and we thank them for the superior service they provide to our customers every day. We would also like to thank the CWA-IBT for their professionalism and for advocating for their members, and to both negotiating teams for their dedication and hard work toward reaching an agreement.”

The CWA-IBT will share details of the tentative agreement directly to their membership.
