Springing into Service in New York

4/20/2018

April is National Volunteer Month, and at American Airlines, community service is an important part of building a strong culture. Team members know the impact they make when they volunteer in the communities where they live, work and serve.

On April 13 in New York City, 50 volunteers, including team members, their friends and their family members, joined a few colleagues from British Airways to do some good at University Settlement, a Brooklyn community center. The center works with City Year to help elementary and middle school children throughout New York's five boroughs with educational needs.

American has proudly partnered with City Year since 2015; the organization is supported through American's corporate giving committees known as Regional Councils. American also supports City Year chapters in Philadelphia, Dallas/Fort Worth and Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Get a look the team's day at University Settlement, learn more about the importance of American's involvement and see how together we let good take flight in the video above.
