Top 25: American Airlines Diversity Advisory Council honored for excellence

5/8/2019

FORT WORTH, Texas — For the ninth year, American Airlines received the 2019 ERG & Council Honors Award by the Association of ERGs & Councils in recognition of the airline's Diversity Advisory Council. The premiere national award recognizes, honors and celebrates the outstanding contributions and achievements of employee resource groups and diversity councils.

“We’re proud to earn recognition for the ways our team members embrace inclusion, diversity and equity,” said Patrick O’Keeffe, Senior Vice President of People for American. “Our employee business resource groups are dedicated to promoting cultural enrichment, supporting business success and engaging our team members in community service.”

The award is the only annual national award to recognize the contributions and achievements of employee resource groups (ERGs), business resource groups (BRGs) and diversity councils that lead the diversity and inclusion process in their organizations and demonstrate results in their workforce, workplace and marketplace.

The number of EBRG chapters has more than doubled, from 68 at the time of the merger to more than 200 worldwide today. In the past two years alone, team member participation has increased by 22 percent.
