American Airlines is ready to help travelers take flight this Travel Tuesday

2024-11-21

The countdown is on for Travel Tuesday. Falling on Dec. 3 this year, American Airlines is gearing up to fulfill travel desires for 2025. Whether traveling to visit friends and family or go on a new adventure, American's comprehensive global network provides more ways for customers to travel the way they want to.

Ahead of Travel Tuesday, American is spreading early holiday cheer with round-trip fares under $200 for domestic travel to beaches, mountains, cities and more. These affordable vacations are available to book now at aa.com.

The award-winning AAdvantage® travel rewards program helps travelers unlock new travels and unique experiences both at home and while on the go. To make the holidays sweeter, give the gift of travel to friends or family with savings of up to 50% when purchasing AAdvantage® miles between Nov. 29 and Dec. 2.

AAdvantage® members will be the first to know about great deals on flights and miles. Not already an AAdvantage® member? It's easy to become one. Sign up today for free and gain access to the best experience, rewards and offerings available from American.

"Travel Tuesday has grown in popularity, and American is happy to provide customers more ways to celebrate the holidays by unlocking new escapes in the new year," said Caroline Clayton, American's Vice President of Communications and Marketing. "Whether customers want to relax on a beach in South Caicos, spend time with a koala in Brisbane or take a golf trip with friends and family in Edinburgh, American's expansive network is ready to indulge our travelers' desires in 2025."

According to a recent report by McKinsey, consumer interest in Travel Tuesday has grown fivefold in the past few years, with bookings for air travel leading the way.

With more than 50 new routes launched this year and 20 planned for 2025, American's network of new routes will give customers more ways to plan exciting adventures on Travel Tuesday. American has curated a selection of new routes from its hubs and gateways to help travelers connect to the world for their next big adventure.
