American Airlines launches cash and miles bookings, giving AAdvantage members more flexibility to redeem rewards

2026-10-02

FORT WORTH, Texas — American Airlines is making it easier for AAdvantage® members to use their miles and get closer to their next trip. As the feature rolls out in the coming weeks, eligible AAdvantage® members will be able to combine cash and miles when booking flights on aa.com and American's digital app.

"At American, we're continually evolving the AAdvantage® program to deliver more choice and flexibility for our members," said American's Senior Vice President of AAdvantage® Scott Long. "The introduction of cash and miles is another step in our ongoing effort to provide AAdvantage® members with more personalized ways to engage with the program and get more value from their membership."

To book with cash and miles:

Once logged into the AAdvantage® account, members will select their desired flights with cash.

During checkout, members will be presented with an optional trip insurance offer.

After making their trip insurance selection, available cash and miles options will be displayed. Members can use a slider to choose the combination of cash and miles that best fits their preferences.

Once a selection is made, the cost summary will automatically update to reflect the chosen combination.

Members can then enter their payment information and complete their booking.
