- Admirals Club® lounges in Concourses C and E to remain open during renovation of lounge in Concourse D.

FORT WORTH, Texas — American Airlines is renovating its popular Admirals Club® lounge in Concourse D of Reagan National Airport (DCA). The renovated lounge will span more than 10,000 square feet, adding approximately 50% more seating and giving customers more room to recharge and relax ahead of their journey.

“We’re proud to serve the Washington, D.C. market, and it’s essential that we have the lounge footprint to support all of our customers in this important hub,” said Heather Garboden, American’s Chief Customer Officer. “The redesigned Admirals Club® lounge will provide ample seating, an upscale design and elevated amenities that reflect the premium experience our customers deserve.”

The redesigned lounge will take design inspiration from the city, including local design elements that reflect the rich history of Washington, D.C. It will also feature airside views of the United States Capitol and Washington Monument.

American operates more than 255 peak daily flights out of DCA, connecting customers to more than 90 destinations. The airline remains committed to serving the D.C. community and delivering a world-class travel experience.

This project will result in the second fully refurbished Admirals Club® lounge for American at DCA, reinforcing the company’s broader commitment to elevating the premium customer experience. Construction is targeted to begin in early 2026. During construction, the current lounge space will close, and customers will continue to be able to access the Admirals Club® lounges in Concourses C and E.

American's plans to upgrade its DCA lounge offering is the latest in a series of investments reflecting its commitment to enhancing the customer experience, with news earlier this year of additional Admirals Club® lounges, plus new Flagship® lounges in both Charlotte and Miami.

The AAdvantage® program makes access easy

American Airlines is making it easier than ever for AAdvantage® members to enjoy premium lounge experiences.

For those traveling domestically, Admirals Club® lounge access is available through an Admirals Club® membership, qualifying oneworld status or the Citi® / AAdvantage® Executive World Elite Mastercard®. Citi® / AAdvantage® Globe™ Mastercard® cardholders can also use one of their four Admirals Club® Globe™ passes, valid for 24 hours. Customers can also purchase a One Day Pass, valid for 24 hours, for $79 or 7,900 AAdvantage® miles.
